

BIOGRAPHY

Dejana Zlatanović was born on January 29th, 1977, in Kragujevac, where she finished her primary school and high school with honors. She enrolled at the Faculty of Economics, University of Kragujevac, the department of Management, in the academic year of 1996/1997. She finished her undergraduate studies in 2001, with an average grade of 9.12. Master studies, department of Management, educational profile Quantitative Methods, finished with the highest grade of 10.00. Successfully defended her master thesis with the title "Cybernetic Structuring of Management Problem Situations" in 2008 at the Faculty of Economics, University of Kragujevac, and PhD dissertation entitled "Methodological Aspects of Combined Use of Systems Methodologies for Managing The Problem Situations of Business Economics" in 2015. At the Faculty of Economics, University of Kragujevac, she has been employed since 2001: firstly as an assistant trainee on the course of Economic Cybernetics (2001-2009), then as a teaching assistant on the courses of Economic Cybernetics and Systems Theory – Application in Business Economics (2009-2016). Since 2016, she is an assistant professor teaching the courses of Economic Cybernetics and Management Science, at the Faculty of Economics, University of Kragujevac. In the academic year of 2013/2014, she was engaged in conducting exercises on the course of Methodology for Scientific Research, at master studies. She also teaches the course of Critical Managing the Problem Situations, at doctoral studies at the Faculty of Economics, University of Kragujevac. As a participant in the exchange program between University of Kragujevac and University of Maribor, she spent a month at the Faculty of Economics and Business, University of Maribor, Slovenia (in 2013). Her research interest is focused on systems thinking and its application in business economics, innovativeness and corporate social responsibility. She is the author and co-author of a number of scientific and professional papers published in the country and abroad, in the field of systemic conceptualization and creative problem solving in enterprises, and has been a reviewer of prominent scientific journals and proceedings. She was a secretary of the Department for Management and Business Economics (2005-2009). Currently, she is Head of the Study Program of Business Economics and Management, as well as a member of the Commission for Undergraduate and Master Academic Studies at the Faculty of Economics, University of Kragujevac. She is also a member of the Organizing Committee for the international scientific conference Contemporary Issues in Economics, Business and Management (EBM 2014, EBM 2016, EBM 2018).